

My wife and I visited the Philippines for a few weeks. I got to meet her family and we enjoyed our stay in Tagatay We had lunch overlooking the Taal volcano which was a short distance away. Soon it was time to leave the island and fly back to Florida. Within two weeks after we got home, the video of the volcano erupting was on the web. It happened right where we had been staying. The whole area was an ash covered chaotic mess, and people were all trying to get out of the area at once. We were grateful that we got out in time.
